STATE CHAIRMAN NUGENT Roasts Woodrow Wilson WAR IN NEW JERSEY CAMP

Calls New Jersey Governor Liar
and Ingrate.

PROPOSES TOAST IN PUBLIC

State's Guardsmen and Army Officer
Leave Table In Disgust as Nugent
Displays Venom Because Governor
Had Secured Passage of Laws Repulsive to Bosses of Both Parties.
Came Near Being Victim of Severe Beating.

Siegert, N. J., July 27.—In the presence of several officers of the New Jersey National Guard, James E. Nugent, chairman of the Democratic state committee, called Governor Wilson an ingrate and a liar.
Since then he has been the target for the strongest kind of condemnation all through the camp of the New Jersey Guard.

The assertion was made in the presence of half a hundred or more people at a restaurant in Aven, and one officer at least stated that it was only by exercising the greatest self-restraint that he was kept from attacking Nugent on the spot. The story has been verified by half a dozen who were present, and the manner in which Nugent made the remarks has led several who were present to go to Governor Wilson and assure him if the story got to the newspapers they were ready to testify to the language used by state chairman. The governor had nothing to say about the matter for publication when seen.

All Agree as to Language.

Nugent was at a restaurant at Aven, accompanied by three friends.
In the same restaurant were about a score of officers, some from the staff of General Collins and others from the regiment. All agree as to what took place. Before a dining room full of people Nugent, without any warning, rose from his seat and offered the following toast, the latter part being given in deathlike silence:
"I propose a toast to the governor of New Jersey, the commander-in-chief of the militia; he's an ingrate and he's a liar. I mean Woodrow Wilson. I repeat he's an ingrate and a liar. Do I drink alone?"

The officers present were dumfounded and several said that it was only by exercising the greatest restraint that they kept from attacking the man on the spot. One member of General Collins' staff got up and left his seat, soon to be followed by three more of them, and a regular army officer who was present.

Nugent and Governor Wilson have not been on friendly terms since last winter, when the governor jammed through legislation which was distasteful to the old-time bosses in both the Republican and Democratic parties. He has frequently taken occasion at public dinners since the legislature adjourned to attack the executive's policies.

Hoke In Love With His Present Job

Governor Smith Refuses to Take Senatorialship Now.

Atlanta, Ga., July 27.—Governor
Hoke Smith will not resign as governor and go to Washington to qualify as United States senator, despite the fact that he has been notified by Democratic leaders that his vote will be needed on tariff bills which are soon to be acted on. Governor Smith was notified that his vote would be needed on a bill to revise the tariff and he was requested to hurry to Washington and qualify as senator.
Governor Smith, however, has decided that his vote will not be needed, and he will hold to the executive office at least during the present session of the legislature.

DENIES DICK-TO-DICK LETTER

Concludes Document With Bitter Arraignment of Those Who He Says Seek to Besmirch All Who Invest in Alaskan Lands and All Who Are Officially Connected With Administration—Refutes Charges of Corruption.

Washington, July 27.—In a special message to the senate today President Taft answered the charges that have been made against him by Senator LaFollette and other political enemies, of having permitted a private corporation to secure a monopoly of the shore line lands along Controller bay in Alaska, and thus indirectly of the Alaskan coal fields. Mr. Taft denies absolutely that a New York monopolistic control is vested in any corporation or individual, and declares that the administration's conduct of the so-called Controller bay withdrawals has been open and designed solely to promote the best interests of Alaska and the general public.

The president also makes a flat and convincing denial of the authenticity of the so-called "Dick to Dick" letter. Mr. Taft concludes with a bitter arraignment of the persons responsible for the spreading of such stories in the discussion of every Alaskan issue.

"The intensity of their desire," says Mr. Taft, "to besmirch all who invest in that district and all who are officially connected with this administration operates upon the minds of weak human instruments and prompts the fabrication of such false testimony as this postscript."

Delivered in Senate.

The message was sent to the senate by the president in response to a resolution introduced by Representative Poindexter of Washington, the original charge having been that the Guggenheim syndicate had gobbled up the Controller bay waterfront through R. S. Ryan's filings on lands opened for entry by President Taft.

Of the widely discussed "Dick to Dick" postscript, the president says:
"I desire to allude to a circumstance which the terms of this resolution make apt and relevant. It is a widely published statement attributed to a newspaper correspondent that in an examination of the files of the interior department a few weeks ago, a postscript was found attached to a letter of July 13, 1910, addressed by Richard S. Ryan to Secretary Ballinger, urging the elimination of land
enough for terminals for the Controller Bay Railway and Navigation company. The postscript was said to read as follows: 'Dear Dick: I went to see the president the other day.
He asked me who it was I represented. I told him according to our agreement that I represented myself.
But this didn't seem to satisfy him.
So I sent for Charlie Taft and asked him to tell his brother, the president, who it was I really represented. The president made no further objection to my claim. Yours, Dick.'

As to the charge made against the president that the order throwing the Controller bay lands open to entry was made secretly, Mr. Taft submits evidence to show that a full statement of the case had been printed in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer 10 days before the order was made, giving news of the details of Mr. Ryan's application and stating the probability of its being granted.

Further on in the message the president said:

Wants to Be Specific.

"I wish to be as specific as possible and to say that I alone am responsible for the enlargement of the proposed elimination from 223 acres to 12,800 acres, and that I proposed the change and stated the reasons therefor."

"If a railroad was to be constructed from Controller bay to the Bering sea field it was perfectly evident that there must be a terminal town on the shore of Controller bay, and I was therefore glad and anxious to throw it open to entry and settlement as one important step in an-

Cities Cannot Limit Speed Of the Autos

Municipalities have no power to limit the speed of automobiles is the gist of a ruling made by Attorney General Hogan Wednesday to Major Dunlap of Lydia, Ohio. Hogan holds that the state law regulating the speed of automobiles to eight miles an hour in the business districts, to 15 miles an hour in the residential districts and twenty miles an hour on the country roads precludes the vesting of cities with any such powers.

HISTORY OF DEVELOPMENT FAYETTE'S ANNUAL FAIR. AN EDUCATIONAL OUTING

Four weeks until the biggest annual event in Fayette county takes place—the Fayette County Fair, which will be held on the 22nd, 23rd, 24th and 25th of August. It is the eleventh annual exhibition of the Fair under the present organization, and will be cleaner than ever, with all the features of interest that marks the modern agricultural fair.

The development of the Fayette County Fair during the past decade, has indeed been marvelous. From a frolic and an event for gamblers to reap a rich harvest, it has been lifted to a plane commanding the respect and admiration of all, and this due to the enterprise and progressiveness of those in charge.

With the up-to-date Fair of the present, came the demise of the leeches with the "sure-thing" game. Today the fair is conspicuous by their absence. Education is now paramount in all exhibitions; visitors view and learn from the exhibits of pure bred stock, agriculture and horticulture, and an opportunity is offered all who desire it, to exhibit the products of their own raising.

An officer will be sent after Woods today with a purpose to compel him to sleep in the local jail tonight.

Milton Woods, residing at New Holland and a cousin to Harry Woods, arrested for grand larceny Tuesday evening, was arrested Wednesday night and placed in the cooler at New Holland, upon an affidavit filed against him by Mary Woods, charging him with failure to provide for minor children.

Mrs. Woods and two small children claim to have been so neglected that they came to this city and sought shelter with relatives, claiming that Woods has made a horrible failure of providing for them.

The social hour, with dainty refreshments, was much enjoyed.

Assisting Mrs. Persinger and Miss Persinger as the afternoon's hostesses were Mesdames Hall, Fitzgerald, Breech, Mallow, Coil, E. A. Ellis, Hutchinson, Schmidt, Miss Crooks.

Wheat Threshing Nearing the End

With what is believed to be a record breaking average yield of wheat threshing in Fayette county is almost over, and the farmers are much pleased over the splendid yields. The dry weather last spring cut the crop short of what it would have been had the weather been favorable, but the damage was little compared to what it was believed to be at that time.

The average yield in Fayette county has been estimated at 20 to 25 bushels per acre, or considerably more than that of a few years ago. Quite a large amount of the wheat was stored for higher prices, it being the general opinion that wheat will go to $1 or more before Christmas.

Mrs. D. H. Barchet and son, Ira, returned Wednesday night from a visit with relatives in Virginia and West Virginia, and a stay at White Sulphur Springs. Mr. Barchet joined them in Cincinnati for a couple of days.

HARRY WOOD ARRESTED HAS A CRIMINAL RECORD. ON GRAND LARCENY CHARGE

Harry Wood, who was recently discharged from the workhouse after serving a term for petit larceny committed in Pickaway county, was arrested in New Holland Tuesday evening on a charge of grand larceny.

Monday afternoon Wood is alleged to have entered the residence of Michael Blinckley, in Circleville, and stolen a gold watch, diamond ring, and $7.60 in money.

When Wood was arrested he had the watch in his possession, but had hidden the ring at the home of his mother, Mrs. Jess Cummins, where he has been making his home.

Wood is said to be a natural born criminal; a few years ago he was sent to the Boys' Industrial school for stealing a bicycle, and after being released, was arrested for stealing a sum of money from Edward Leach. He drew a term in the workhouse for that. As the value of the present theft is $52.60 he will probably be given another long trip.

He is now in the Pickaway county jail awaiting trial.

Chief of Police Devaney received a message Wednesday that an officer was on the way to this city to secure C. H. Davis, wanted in Huntington, W. Va., for forgery, and who was arrested in this city last week and has been in the county jail awaiting action of the authorities at Huntington.

Some delay was occasioned in securing extradition papers, as Governor Harmon was out of the state. These papers have been secured, it was stated, and Davis, alias Twigg, alias Sherman will be removed to the Huntington prison and tried before the courts there upon five charges of forgery.

DRIVER WERT MALLOW IN BIG TRACK SMASHUP JUMPS FENCE TO SAFETY

At the Toledo races on Wednesday driver Wert Mallow of this county, owner and driver of the famous pacer major Mallow, had a narrow escape from death or serious injury.

Mr. Mallow was driving C. O. R. in the 2:16 pace, purse $400. There were sixteen starters in the race and consequently quite a jam after the start.

In the second heat immediately after the word "go" was given, Mamie Dodd and C. O. R. collided very soon after leaving the wire. The drivers of both horses escaped death or serious injury in the pile up which followed the collision, by jumping the fence.

The horses, driverless, went on and paced out the heat, finishing fourteenth and fifteenth respectively.

Both horses were found to be uninjured at the close of the heat and started in the third and last heat.

At the end of the race Mamie Dodd was given fourth place and C. O. R. sixth place.

The escape of both drivers and horses from serious injury was indeed remarkable.

THE FANATICS.

When a man becomes convinced in his own conscience of the truth of a great principle, it is his duty to give that truth to the world. That is an inexorable rule by which the good citizen is measured.

If he fails to announce to the world the result of his research, his conviction of truth, no matter how much he may be scoffed at and no matter how lonesome that truth may, at first, be, he is a coward and cowards do not make the world move.

Great truths are rarely if ever kindly received on first presentation. We know this by experience, past and present, and we know it from history's pages, both sacred and profane.

The progress or the change, if that expression is preferred, of truth from unpopularity to popularity is frequently a slow process. As a prominent lady once expressed it to one of the nation's greatest men—when one person sees a thing he is a fanatic, when quite a number see the same thing, he is no longer a fanatic, he is simply an enthusiast, and when all see it, he is a hero.

How happily and how clearly that expresses existing conditions and conditions as they have existed since time began, every man and woman, who observes the progress of events, fully appreciates.

Great reforms which time has made popular are, almost without exception, at first received by the people with hostility and great reformers are almost universally hailed as cranks.

An every-day observance of the progress of events and a comparison of the present conditions with past conditions furnishes proof positive that it is the reforms and the reformers and the radicals, or the cranks, if you please, which have exerted the most powerful influence in the religious, moral and political uplift of man and have made national progress in even a material way an accomplished fact.

The people who stay in the rut which custom and conservatism has worn are not to be credited with that progress of the human family which stands out boldly on history's pages.

It is, unfortunately, a fact that too many of our "cranks" fail to come into their own in time to enjoy the satisfaction which comes with the vindication of honest effort made. Too many men who are scoffed at in life do not live to step over the line and join either the enthusiasts or the heros.

The spirit of independence and the moral courage to do the thing which the inner conscience says is right, regardless of the reception of such an act by the unthinking multitude is what stamps a man as great and the number of courageous, honest thinkers as distinguished from those who trounce and bow to popular rule, which a nation possesses is what makes that nation great or small.

Men cannot advance without thinking and thinking honestly, thinking for themselves and for others too, and the result of that honest effort cannot benefit humanity unless it be given to humanity regardless of the reception which humanity accords that gift.

City Man
Forced to Honor
Farmer

By DOW G. CONGDON

"When Reuben comes to town" has been made the occasion for as much merriment as the shanty Irishman or the old clothes man, but the farmer has come up smiling and of late years there has been less disposition to poke fun at the visitor from the country. People who live in cities are beginning to suspect that the man from the farm has the edge on the town dweller. And there's reason.

The wage earner in the city has stood and delivered before the man who grows the bread and butter, and the farmer who once came to town to wander aimlessly about the streets and gaze at the tall buildings may now speed into town in his own automobile, put up at the best hotel and spend his time in enjoyment of the same amusements that call out the throngs of urbans.

Not every farmer, of course, can do that. But there can be no doubt that there is more of the cosmopolitan in the makeup of the granger to-day. Even if he cannot afford the luxuries, he has come to make himself less conspicuous. He wears clothes that bear no provincial stamp. The country stores, in fact, in this age of ready made clothing that conservatively follows the styles, gives him a better opportunity in this direction than they did years ago.

The visitor has learned that his first need in the city is to become located, so that he will not be obliged to wander about the streets, possibly carrying his luggage. He finds a hotel where the fare fits his purse and he decides before he strikes the sidewalk where he is to go and what he is to see.

Country people unused to city ways are wont to wander into the lunch-rooms where clerks and bookkeepers are perched up on impossible stools snatching their hasty lunches from counters. It is worthy of note, however, that the city workers refrain from making remarks when the rural resident ambles in leading his wife and two children and the waitresses respect the provincialism and make way for this quartet of patrons, whom it would be more convenient to direct to a restaurant where tables are provided.

But city restaurant men say that the man from the country, as a general thing, has now learned to spot an appropriate dining place.

POETRY
FOR TODAY

THE DEVIL OF SPEED.

The Devil of Speed is a murderous imp—
His face is scarred and he walks with a limp,
And his arm's in a sling, his back awry
And black and blue is his terrible eye;
Trailing his leap is a broken array
Of things that were human, along the way—
Things that were human, left in the track
Of the Devil of Speed, to his hell and back!

The Devil of Speed is a merciless wretch.
Ever he's eager to hurry and fetch
Death and disaster and pulverized bones,
Dragging his victims over the stones;
Stealing upon them in country and town,
Striking them low like the thief in the night
And shrieking with glee at the dripping sight!
Howling and yowling, ripping and zipping,
Ever and ever he flies on his way.
The Devil of Speed in his race with today!
Widows shall weep and children shall moan,
But the Devil of Speed is pursuing his own!
Killing them, grilling them, driving them down
In the streets of the city and lanes of the town.—Baltimore Sun.

LYSANDER JOHN
HAS BIRTHDAYWife Provides a "Dutch Lunch" and Oh, What a Feast It Was.

WHEN TROUBLES COME to a man in his office he lacks the great comfort afforded his wife under similar conditions—that of weeping on the kitchen towel.

Lysander John Appleton had longed sorely all day for some homely little comfort like this, and had hurried home earlier than usual that he might find sympathy in pouring out his soul to his two pillow-cushion ladies.

"Pouring out his soul," however, is not the way Lysander John would have expressed it: "pouring out one's soul" is a woman's term, really, meaning garrulity, and whatever else it can be said against Lysander John it can't be said he talked like a woman.

His wife and daughter had gone to one of their many societies formed for the purpose of improving mankind, and Lysander John drew up his chair before the lounge on which the two pillow cushions reposed in all the dignity a thorough stuffing gave them.

"The women," said Lysander John, giving a characteristic look over his shoulder to see if his wife heard him, "are getting foolish every day."

Such a bold thing for Lysander John to say, that he frightened even himself with his boldness, and the rest of his complaint was delivered in a whisper.

"Did you see what happened here last night?" he continued. "I was wondering why my wife and daughter were hanging around looking so important, when there was a ring at the door, and my wife admitted ten men! A surprise, she said, because it was my birthday. And she hasn't spoken to me since because I wasn't tickled to death."

"You will find something on the dining-room table to eat," she said. "I provided a Dutch lunch because I know you men like such wicked things, and Daysey Mayme and I will spend the evening out that you may have a Real Tough time by yourselves."

"Ladies," said Lysander John, talking louder in his excitement, "what do you think she had provided for a Dutch lunch for eleven men? Six five-cent cigars, one loaf of rye bread, a dime's worth ofologna, half a pound of cheese and Two Pint Bottles of Beer!"

"Now don't get drunk," she said, just as she left. "I want my husband's friends to have a good time, but I don't want to find any of them under the table when I return!"

"And when she came in after they had all gone home and I was in bed trying to forget my humiliation, I heard her say to Daysey Mayme: 'I won't call your father in the morning.' I will let him sleep off his Terrible Bust Head!"

"Bust head! Eleven men and two pint bottles of beer! Is my wife foolish like other women, or are they all alike?"

But the pillow cushions, knowing no more about women than man himself knows, couldn't answer.

Household Hints

When washing fine glass and china have a thick piece of Canton flannel over the bottom of the dishpan to prevent chipping and cracking.

Windows may be washed till they shine with only a moistened chamois skin. Dip it in water and wring it out till almost dry. No powder, soap or manufactured cleaner is needed. A few drops of alcohol will add cleanliness to the glass.

A small oblong of wire netting folded in several thicknesses is sometimes used on the ironing board to rub the flatirons on when they become sticky with starch. A handful of salt spread over a small piece of paper is another and more familiar arrangement for accomplishing the same purpose.

Such frail articles as drawwork, doilies and center pieces, battenberg covers and the like should never go into the general wash, but be carefully laundered by themselves, put to soak the night before with a soap that is not too strong and never rubbed on a board or passed through the wringer.

To give variety to plain apple jelly the rose geranium will add a dainty flavor. Allow a clean, large leaf to two quarts, added to the boiling juice a little before the sugar is put in. Remove in three or four minutes. Two whole cloves to the same quantity of juice or a piece of stale cinnamon, a finger long, will give apple jelly a piquant taste which will be liked. Sprigs of mint used in the same way will surprise the family pleasantly when they are served mint jelly with roast lamb or mutton.

Polato Puffs

Mashed potatoes left over from meal time, add a little salt, one fresh egg, one dessertspoonful of flour, roll in salt, then flatten; fry in plenty of oil until nice and brown on both sides. Serve. Delicious.

CHOCOLATE CHARLOTTE—Line a mold with lady fingers. Dissolve one heaping tablespoonful of powdered gelatine with half a cupful of boiling water. Put one heaping tablespoonful of grated chocolate into a saucepan, add two tablespoonsfuls of boiling water and two tablespoonsfuls of sugar; stir till smooth then add one gill of hot milk, the dissolved gelatine, one teaspoonful of vanilla extract, half a cupful of powdered sugar and two cupfuls of whipped cream. Mix gently until it begins to thicken. Pour into the prepared mold and set away in a cool place. Turn out and serve with chopped lemon jelly.

EVERYBODY'S BIBLE QUESTION BOX

YOUR BIBLE QUESTIONS WILL BE ANSWERED IN THESE COLUMNS, OR BY MAIL IF SENT TO THE EDITOR OF THIS JOURNAL.

Q.—Is there such a thing as a "ghost"?

Answer.—The word "ghost" as generally used, is understood by many to mean some kind of an apparition or supposed manifestation of a spirit being—a phantom. Thus, when our Lord had risen from the dead and appeared in the midst of the disciples while the door was shut, they supposed that they had seen a phantom, something intangible. Our Lord corrected their error by telling them that spirit-beings had not flesh and bones, as they saw He had. Our Lord was indeed a spirit being after His resurrection; but He materialized for the sake of instructing His Apostles, who were to be His witnesses, not only of His life and death, but also of His resurrection.

In times past, angels have appeared to men, but not as ghosts. As Jesus, as a spirit Being after His resurrection, appeared in various forms—as a gardener, as a stranger and in a body similar to that in which He was crucified—so angels have exercised this power to appear like men. For instance, the three who came to Abraham, as recorded in Genesis xviii, 1-8. They also ate, drank and talked. At first the fallen angels had this power, but were deprived of it according to the Scriptures—"delivered into chains of darkness" (II Peter ii, 4). The Bible gives intimation that in the close of the Gospel Ages these evil spirits will regain their power to materialize and represent themselves as men. They will have the power to appear and reappear, but not as ghosts in the sense of apparitions.

HEIGHT AND WEIGHT.

Their Relation to a Man's Chances For Long Life.

The ideal insurance risk, from the point of view of height, is said to be from five feet seven inches to five feet nine inches tall. According to the National Fraternal Congress, longevity and build have a close relation; the greater the variation in height from the above figure the greater the risk.

Brockbank says that tall men are not so long lived as their brothers whose heads are nearer to the ground.

Men who are both tall and stout are not as good risks as stout men of medium or below medium height, says a writer in American Medicine. They do not bear acute illness so well, and accidents to them are likely to be more severe.

Risks over the allotted limit of weight are especially liable to diabetes, heart affections, apoplexy, gout, diseases of the kidneys and arteriosclerosis; excessive eating and abuse of alcohol are common among this class.

It is stated that stout men under forty are worse risks than those over forty and under sixty, and that men who were unduly fat while they were boys are considered poor risks, especially if the tendency is hereditary.

Stout men are better average risks than their very thin brothers who are liable to tuberculosis and disorders of the nervous system. But for even the featherweight there is much consolation.

He bears acute illness better than the heavyweight, and most of the people living beyond the allotted three score years and ten are of light build. A slim, wiry, small framed man is said to be a better risk than a thin

but big boned one.

JUDGE A. C. PATTON HOME TALKS IN GLOWING TERMS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST

Says Our Farmers Need Not Fear
Reciprocity

BELIEVES IT COMING COUNTRY

And Place for Energetic Farmer
to Make a Stake

Judge A. C. Patton and Frank McCormick returned home on Wednesday, after an eight-day trip into the spring wheat country of Canada. They spent three days in the Tramping Lake district, Saskatchewan, Canada, and had taken a little rest, an automobile party was made up, and 16 autos, the property of the Development Co., took us on a two-days' trip across that wonderful country.

The object of Messrs. Patton and McCormick in taking this trip was to see the country and learn for themselves if the glowing stories related in the newspapers of the prospects and advantages of the Canadian Northwest are in reality as alluring as the painted picture. Their verdict after traveling over tens of thousand of acres of the land which is mostly a black and chocolate loam and seeing vegetables and grains of every description growing with the single exception of corn, which is not cultivated here to any extent, is very favorable.

A HERALD representative saw Judge Patton at the Probate court room yesterday afternoon, shortly after his return home, and he consented to give us a few impressions of his trip.

"How did you enjoy your trip, Judge?" he was asked.

"It was by far the finest and in every way the most enjoyable and delightful trip I ever took, although I have been West a number of times. I am not selling land, have no interest in Canada, and my opinion is an unprejudiced one. The trip was a delight from the time we left home until we landed back in Washington C. H. We went to Columbus on Tuesday morning of last week and left over the Pan Handle and went via Chicago, St. Paul and Winnepeg. We accompanied about sixty other persons from Ohio and other states and our comforts were looked after

First Corn Cut By C. A. & C. Boys

For a number of years up to this year it has been customary for the Pennsylvania lines to beautify their grounds by clumps of flowers. This has been done at considerable expense, and to eliminate the expense, no flowers were planted this year.

In the late spring someone planted a grain of corn in one of the beds on the lawn at the local C. A. & C. station, and the corn sprung up and made a quick growth, reaching a height of several feet. A few days ago the Superintendent of the road was passing through the city and was standing upon the rear of his private car as the train whirled through. His keen eye perceived the lonely stalk of corn and he is said to have become so indignant that when he reached Sabina he fired back a message to tear out the offending stalk of corn, root and branch. It is needless to say that the order was complied with in a hurry, and the corn was cut down.

When we reached the Tramping

Lake district, Saskatchewan, Canada, and had taken a little rest, an automobile party was made up, and 16

autos, the property of the Development Co., took us on a two-days' trip across that wonderful country.

"Vast fields of spring wheat, oats, flax, etc., extended in all directions

as far as the eye could reach, while patches of potatoes and vegetables of all kinds were growing to perfection.

When I was engaged in teaching school in Fayette county, years ago,

I imagined that I knew something about Canada, but now I realize that my conceptions were decidedly erroneous.

"Northwestern Canada in my opinion, is the garden spot of the world and within ten years from now it will be as thickly settled as Fayette county is today. The cheapness and fertility of the soil, coupled with the high prices obtainable for grain and other produce and the rapidly growing railroad facilities of Canada insures for Northwestern Canada a magnificent future.

The wheat yield is 30 to 40

bushels per acre, oats 80 to 100 bushels and other things in proportion.

It is one of the greatest potato counties on the globe. The soil is so rich that fertilizing is not required.

"One thing that astonished me was the fact that while we were in Win-nepeg wheat of this same grade was selling at a higher price than was at the time being paid for it in Chicago. This convinced me that the farmers of the United States who fear that reciprocity with Canada will be disadvantageous to the agricultural interests of our own country are needlessly alarmed. It will not hurt the farmer and will be a great benefit to the entire United States.

"The inhabitants of Canada are to all appearances a happy prosperous and contented people. The Canadian has great respect for the law and the cost of the administration of government is very light. After a trip to the lands of our Northern sister country a citizen of the United States is forcibly and favorably impressed with the possibilities of that great country which, strangely enough, is comparatively little known and not appreciated as it should be in the United States.

"There are many lakes in the Saskatchewan country and wild ducks can be seen by the thousands. Hunting and fishing is excellent. The best of well water is secured at a depth of 16 to 100 feet. The water is as clear as glass and cold as ice-water and abounds everywhere.

"We were surprised upon looking at our watches to see that it was after 9 p. m. and the sun was still shining. The sun rises this season of the year about 3 a. m., so that there are only about 4 hours of darkness. There is plenty of time to get in a good day's work. In the summer season farmers work from 6

a. m. to 12 noon, and lunch, and then work from 4 p. m. to 9.

"Northwestern Canada is a great place for a good farmer to make his stake."

by the Development Company, which gave the trip. Their manner of taking care of the interests and comforts of a large company of travelers has reached the stage of perfection.

"At Minneapolis we met several former Washingtonians. Joe B. Hudson and his son are prosperous jewelers there, and Will Lawhead is in the Hudson store. Charles Van Devere and his son, Albert, live there and we were shown over the beautiful city of Minneapolis in Mr. Van Devere's auto.

The electors in Ohio will be handed four ballots when they go into the polling place to exercise their franchise this fall, observes an exchange.

First will come the regular municipal and township ballot, with the tickets arranged in party columns.

This will be followed by a non-partisan school board ticket, which, by the way, the women, too, can vote.

Then comes a non-partisan ballot for election of members of the constitutional convention, and lastly, a non-partisan ballot on which the voter will indicate his choice for the justice of the peace, this being a judicial office and coming under the terms of non-partisan judiciary law.
